Producer

Tutunjian are a family-owned winery founded in 1995 when American businessman, Edward Tutunjian visited Chile and fell in love with the country and its wines. Deciding to invest in Chilean wine, he bought his first vineyard in the prestigious Curicó Valley. Benjamín Mei is lead winemaker with the support of Álvaro Espinoza.

Climate, viticulture, winemaking

Located 200km south of Santiago, more than 30 varieties of wine grapes have grown in the Curicó Valley since the mid-1800s. The region is shielded from the ocean influence by a coastal range of hills, creating a Mediterranean climate. The soil is a mix of clay and loam. Tutunjian are a family-owned winery with vineyard sites in five different Chilean valleys - Maipo, San Antonio, Colchagua, Curicó, Maule. This array of locations and microclimates allows them to produce a wide range of wines and styles.

Hand-harvested, the grape are macerated at low temperatures prior to fermentation for three days to extract colour and aromas. Fermentation occurs in stainless steel tanks between 28-30 °C for seven days before macerating for a second time for 10 days. 50% of the wine is then aged in French oak barrels for 6-8 months. The wine is blended in stainless steel tanks and aged for a further 3-6 months prior to bottling.

Tasting Notes

Elegant aromas of cherries, ripe black fruits and vanilla notes. Concentrated and full-bodied in style, the palate is bursting with dried fruit, rich plum tones and a touch of tobacco underneath. Juicy tannins support a long, persistent finish.
